Youths to come on streets if recruitment process delayed further: ALUYA

All Ladakh Unemployed Youth Association along with student bodies raising the issues of the growing unemployment crisis in the region.

Tenzin Dajon

LEH: All Ladakh Unemployed Youth Association along with student bodies raised the issues of the growing unemployment crisis in the region.

Addressing a press conference, Tundup Thinlas, President ALUYA said, "It has been more than two years and so far not a single job was created or notified. Narratives are being built up that in UT Ladakh recruitments have been started through examination and filling up of some vacancies.

We need to understand that these posts are created based on SRO under the erstwhile state of J&K, but under the new UT setup, not even a single new post has been created. Earlier we had a domicile issue, now we have a resident certificate (RC) as a domicile. The recruitment process is being delayed deliberately".

"We could understand that today we have no board for state and division level posts, but for district cadre posts we have both recruitment rule and board. We requested Hill council multiple times as it comes under the council. Except for assurances, nothing is happening. Today unemployment has become the most serious issue in the UT and seems no one is bothered", he added.

Advisor Umang Narula convened a meeting with SSC to conduct the recruitment of state and divisional cadre posts. ALUYA said that the step is ok for the time being, but permanently surrendering it to SSC is not a wise decision. They said that like all other states and UTs, Ladakh must have its board for these posts. They also highlighted the need of creating a separate PSC named, 'Ladakh

Differently-abled people strives towards environmental protection

Initiates 'Jungwa Shrungskyob' project, an effort to reduce garbage by recycling the wastes into useful products

PAGIR member cutting the recycled papers.

Stanzin Dasal

LEH: People's Action Group for Inclusion and Rights (PAGIR) along with its aim to work for the rights of persons with disabilities are also working towards environment protection themed, 'Jungwa Shrungskyob'.

'Jungwa Shrungskyob'- care for the environment is a social program initiated by PAGIR to reduce pollution and conserve nature. The specially-abled members of PAGIR turn the waste materials into usable products like carry bags, cushions, face masks, decorative items, purses, pen stands, envelopes, file covers, etc. The initiative to reduce garbage by recycling useful products impressed Rigzin Samphel, the then Commissioner Secretary, UT Ladakh during his visit to PAGIR in the year 2020. He ordered the first 500 file covers for his office and since then, the Administration of Union Territory of Ladakh supported PAGIR by ordering around 5000 file covers.

Tsering Dolma, who has been working with PAGIR paper recycling unit for the last 4 years said, "We have an order of 5000 file covers from UT administration and around 3000 file covers are ready. We collect the waste papers and also some schools, and individuals drop the waste paper at the centre. We make recycled papers and also insulation bricks."

PAGIR has established a solar passive paper recycling unit at the centre where the members of PAGIR enthusiastically take part in the multi-stage process that starts with the waste paper and ends with

Hill Council, Leh approves LAHD-SSRB (Conduct of Examination Rule) 2021 draft

Chairman/ CEC, LAHDC, Adv. Tashi Gyalson chaired the executive council meeting of LAHDC Leh.

Reach Ladakh Correspondent

LEH: Chairman/ CEC, LAHDC, Adv. Tashi Gyalson chaired the executive council meeting of LAHDC Leh on December 25.

A discussion was held in the executive council to boost the fresh recruitment in the district by LAHD-SSRB, Leh through the transparent manner by incorporating the latest tamper-proof methods like OMR (optical marks read) and CBT (computer-based test). The Executive Council approved the draft LAHD-SSRB (Conduct of Examination Rule) 2021.

It was also decided that the 11th Sustainable Mountain Development Summit will be organized in Leh, by LAHDC, Leh in collaboration with Integrated Mountain Initiative. A committee will be formed to prepare a draft management plan for Leh district relating to Climate change and to make Ladakh climate-resilient.

Further, the meeting decided that LAHDC, Leh will frame a policy on the preservation and protection of heritage sites and monuments.

Dy Chairman, LAHDC, Tsering Angehuk; Executive Councilor, agriculture, Stanzin Choshpel; Executive Councilor, Animal/ Sheep, Tashi Namgyal Yakzee; Executive Councilor, Minority/ forest, Ghulam Mehdi; Deputy Commissioner, Leh, Shrikant Balasaheb Suse, and other officials attended the meeting.

PD Nitya assumes charge as SSP, Leh

Stanzin Dasal

LEH: PD Nitya, a 2016 batch IPS officer assumed charge as the new Senior Superintendent of Police (SSP), Leh on December 29. She replaced SSP Rajiv Pandey.

PD Nitya said that the District Police, Leh will be focusing specially on crime against women, drug abuse, cyber and financial frauds.

She said, "Team of District Police Leh will be working very closely with the people and we are also expecting full cooperation of the people of Leh to be more responsive towards the needs of the society."

Talking about the crime against women cases that go unreported she said, "It will be prime challenges which need to be overcome and every effort will be done. The change has to come from the society but from the police point of view, we will make the reach to police very accessible and the remedy or action will be taken as per law."

PD Nitya also aims to ensure police and public relationship friendly by organizing various outreach programme specially for the youths. The activities will be more youth-oriented to show the friendly and progressive side of the police.

Public Service Commission' to recruit gazetted level posts in the UT.

The unemployed youths of Ladakh feel that the leaders are just counting on the number of posts at various platforms with no implementation on the ground.

Lobzang Spaldan, Chief Coordinator LEAF said, "Even after two years the administration says that UT is a baby, in this time frame even baby starts speaking and walking if fed properly".

He said that the administration has assured to stop outsourcing, but on the other hand, outsourcing is going on. Unfortunately, the number has crossed a thousand, still outsourcing advertisements are circulating.

"I was often threatened by some of the outsourcing-based recruited candidates and they say that they will be regularised no matter what I do. As a student representative, my job is to highlight the issues. We have requested CEC to look into the matter as some are trying to get themselves regularised by using the backdoor entry and departments may have such loopholes", he added.

Youths of Ladakh request administration to start recruitment process at the earliest as many are getting depressed and facing many difficulties. They threatened to come on the streets if the recruitment process delays further.

the final product of recycled paper. Every member is assigned with their job like some sort the waste paper, while some soak the sorted waste paper in water and other paper processing work.

Rigzin Dolma, Incharge, Recycle Unit said, "It's been around 4 years since we have started our recycling project. The differently-abled artisans of PAGIR are engaged in turning the waste materials into usable products. Initially, it was a bit challenging to make them understand about the work but now they are doing the job assigned to them very easily."

PAGIR didn't step back during the lockdown days in 2020 when the world was fighting with COVID first wave. They joined hands with ALTOA and made around 3000 face masks to fight against the pandemic, thus contributing their part in the time of crisis. Members of PAGIR are contributing to society in every possible way and have proved that they do not need special services from the people but an equal opportunity, rights, and an inclusive society.

Swami Chidanand Saraswati, Dr. Her Rey Sheng & Dr. Mohammed Deen receive first Shravasti Awards

Awarded for outstanding contributions in spiritual leadership and environmental protection

Reach Ladakh Correspondent

LEH: First Shravasti award winners, Swami Chidanand Saraswati, Dr. Her Rey Sheng, and Dr. Mohammed Deen were awarded Shravasti Spiritual Leadership award, Shravasti Humanities award, and the Shravasti Environmental award respectively on December 20.

First Shravasti award winners, Swami Chidanand Saraswati, Dr. Her Rey Sheng, and Dr. Mohammed Deen.

Adhering to the principle of "mutual love" and "symbiosis", the Shravasti Awards pay tribute to those who transcend religious differences to promote good deeds and encourage people from different cultures to collaborate and improve the world. Recipients of this award may come from any religious background and are nominated by the public.

Winner of the Spiritual Leadership Award, His Holiness Pujya Swami Chidanand Saraswati, a Hindu spiritual leader has led the Global Interfaith Summit and has long been devoted to realizing religious harmony. Moreover, Swami Chidanand has put his heart and soul into humanitarian projects, working on saving the Ganga River, developing healthcare and education, as well as improving the position of women. His contributions have been recognized by winning the World Peace Ambassador Award and the Mentor of India Award.

Dr. Her Rey Sheng, Shravasti Humanities awardee is the initiator of global "goodness" research and deputy CEO of Tzu Chi Foundation. Transcending the differences between Eastern and Western culture, Dr. Her advocates altruism to achieve equal wealth and prosperity of all human beings and to achieve social harmony and fulfillment of life. Dr. Her has participated in relief work of the 2008 Wenchuan Earthquake in China, the 2013 Philippine Typhoon, and the 2015 Nepal Earthquake. He has won Emmy Award, the Golden Bell Award, and a For Good Award.

Shravasti Environmental Award winner, Dr. Mohammed Deen Darokhan is an environmentalist dedicated to ecological protection in the Himalayan region. His vision of transforming his hometown into an integrated organic area by 2025 is crucial to glacial and climate protection in Ladakh. Dr. Deen has made significant contributions to carbon neutrality, ecological agriculture system, afforestation, biodiversity, energy and water conservation, reduction of plastic use, protection of local cultural traditions, and language diversity.

The vision of the Shravasti Awards is towards encouraging humans to transcend our differences and together build a harmonious homeland where all human beings exist in balance and beautiful earth can develop sustainably.

His Holiness The Drikung Kyabgon Tinline Lhundup said, "The physical world and the mental world are connected to and dependent on each other. Likewise, all living beings are interdependent in a similar manner. We should respect other beings with kindness. This is the virtue of being a human and what we should value as a human."

His Holiness The Drikung Kyabgon Tinline Lhundup has been devoting himself to promoting the development of cultural diversity, education, and humanitarian care, aiming to manifest the principle of "mutual love" and "symbiosis" in all areas of life. His Holiness initiated GO GREEN GO ORGANIC and other sustainability projects in the Himalayan region. These projects have greatly improved the lives of local people in the highest desert in the world. The local population of this area comes from different religious backgrounds, including Buddhism, Islam, Hinduism, etc. For his excellent contributions, His Holiness has been appointed as the Mountain Partnership Goodwill Ambassadors of the United Nations.

The Shravasti Foundation was established on September 28, 2020, in California, USA. The foundation was founded by a team of volunteers to support His Holiness Drikung Kyabgon Tinline Lhundup's humanitarian activities. More than 2500 years ago, when Buddha Shakyamuni preached the Dharma teachings in Shravasti, he pointed out that all living beings share a common destiny and equality, and that we should treat other beings with kindness and no discrimination. This is where the foundation takes its name. The Shravasti Foundation strives to practice the Buddha teachings, making a great endeavor to transcend religious differences and to promote harmony between different groups and between humans and the environment.

Meeting regarding implementation of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 in Ladakh held

Secretary, Social and Tribal Welfare Department, Padma Angmo reviewing the implementation of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 in Ladakh and the Child Protection Scheme.

Reach Ladakh Correspondent

LEH: Secretary, Social and Tribal Welfare Department, Padma Angmo reviewed the implementation of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 in Ladakh and the Child Protection Scheme.

The functioning, performance, and budgetary requirements of the Child Welfare Committees (CWC) and Juvenile Justice Boards (JJBs) of Leh and Kargil were also reviewed by the Secretary.

During the meeting, a detailed blueprint was presented by the officials of National Highways and Infrastructure Development (NHIDCL) for the construction of Boys 'Special Home' and 'Observation Home' for children in conflict with the law, as mandated by the JJ Act.

The Chairperson, Child Welfare Committee (CWC), Kargil, Shah Nawaz Ali gave a detailed presentation on the activities and operations of CWC and District Child Protection Unit (DCPU) and Juvenile Justice Board (JJB) of Kargil. He briefed about the inspection of Child Care Institutes conducted by CWC, awareness programmes conducted by the DCPU, the status of the Block level and Village level Child Protection Committees, and the cases with JJB and CWC.

The Protection Officer Institutional Care (POIC) of DCPU Leh, Rinchen Dolkar gave a presentation on the implementation of the Child Protection Schemes in Leh. She also briefed about the steps taken regarding the Children in Street Situation (CSS) and said that data on children who have become orphaned or semi-orphaned has been updated on the Baal Swaraj Portal.

Various aspects of child protection like a need for open shelters for children in need of care and protection (CNCP), Observation Home and Special Home, and Place of Safety for Children in conflict with the law (CICL), increasing the number of beneficiaries under the Sponsorship Scheme were discussed. The CWC and DCPU also requested for increasing the budgetary provisions for strengthening the service delivery for the target beneficiaries.

Secretary Padma reiterated the implementation of the Standard Operating procedure SOP for Children in Street Situation (CSS) issued by the National Commission of Protection of Child Rights (NCPCR) and directed DCPU and CWC for regular updation of data on CSS Bal Swaraj Portal in compliance with directions given by the Supreme Court. She also emphasised regular meetings and interaction by CWC and DCPU with Police, Legal Services, and NGOs, as they play a crucial role in the delivery of child protection services. Further, she asked the officials to leave no stone unturned to make safe space for children and emphasized that no deserving child should be left out of the benefits of various child care schemes. Also, she instructed the DCPU and CWC to ensure that the Open Shelter to be set up in the two districts for children in need of residential support on a short-term basis, for keeping them away from a life on the streets, should be a model one that could be regarded the best in India.

The meeting was attended by the District Child Protection Officers/District Social Welfare Officers, Child Welfare Committees, members of Juvenile Boards, and staff of District Child Protection Units of Leh and Kargil.

Principal Secretary reviews 5 GW solar power project progress

Reach Ladakh Correspondent

LEH: Principal Secretary, Planning/Forest Ecology and Environment Department, Dr. Pawan Kotwal discussed the issue of acquisition of land for the proposal of five GW Solar Power Projects at Pang and Kharnak, Leh.

In the meeting, the Principal Secretary said that the five GW Solar Power Projects at Pang and Kharnak were prestigious ones for UT Ladakh and the administration would leave no stone unturned to see it commence as soon as possible. He said that Ladakh has a huge potential to generate solar energy, not only to meet its demand but the needs of the country as well.

He said that only once we completely shift from fossil fuel energy to renewable alternatives can Ladakh be truly carbon neutral. He added that the Rs. 50,000 crore Solar Power Project is of national importance not just because it will offset our carbon footprint but will also meet India's international obligations.

Secretary, Power Development Department/Animal, and Sheep Husbandry, Ravinder Dangi, apprised the Principal Secretary about the progress on the project in Pang. He informed that the Solar Energy Corporation of India Limited (SECI), has completed the field survey and discussions have also taken place with all the stakeholders. He further added that in the initial assessment it was observed that the maximum population living in the area was eager for the Solar Power Project to take place. Discussions were also held with SECI to employ locals in the skilled and semi-skilled sectors, apart from regular maintenance jobs at the Solar Power Project, he added.

Earlier, Director, Power Systems SECI, S.K. Mishra apprised the Principal Secretary about the details of the Solar Power Project. Principal Secretary then directed Director SECI to station a contact person in Ladakh.

The meeting was attended by Secretary PDD, Ravinder Kumar; Chief Conservator of Forest/Chief Wildlife Warden Ladakh, Preet Pal Singh; Deputy Commissioner/CEO, LAHDC, Leh, Shrikant Suse; ACR, Leh, Shabbir Hussain and Director, Power Systems SECI, S.K. Mishra.

Ladakh to get Forensic Science Laboratory

Reach Ladakh Correspondent

LEH: The Ministry of Home Affairs has approved the establishment of a Forensic Science Laboratory in Ladakh to be headed by a Deputy Director on the proposal of the Home department, UT Ladakh after its reorganization as a new Union territory.

Forensic examinations and reports play an important role during investigations as well as trials for linking the culprit with the crime and will thus play a vital role in resolving all civil and criminal cases. Forensic Science Laboratory, Ladakh will provide an unbiased scientific opinion on different types of evidential material referred to them by the investigating agencies and in turn help the judiciary. The same will also play a significant role in exonerating the innocent.

In the absence of the Forensic Science Laboratory in Ladakh, specimens had to be sent outside the UT which affected the investigations especially when the specimens were perishables like human viscera. FSL, Ladakh will be a multidisciplinary forensic laboratory capable of examination and analysis of biological, chemical, print, and documentary evidence.

The establishment of the Forensic Science Laboratory unit in Ladakh will go a long way to give better, strong, and reliable evidence in the Court of Law and will also act as a deterrent to possible crimes in the future.

Traffic police organises traffic awareness programme in Leh

202 people died in Ladakh due to road accidents in the last 4 years: SP Traffic

Reach Ladakh Correspondent

LEH: Traffic Police under the aegis of PHQ, Ladakh organised a traffic awareness programme on December 23 in Leh. Pamphlets regarding traffic awareness were distributed among all the stakeholders.

SP Traffic, Mohd Rafi Giri informed that accident-prone areas and black spots have been identified based on the scientific study. He said that in the last four years, 202 deaths took place in UT Ladakh on different roads. He requested transport unions and drivers to drive responsibly especially in accident-prone areas and black spots.

Further, he informed that a separate traffic wing was created last year in August 2020 and has collected approximately ₹1 crore fine from the violators. He assured that in the coming days' similar awareness camps would be conducted in different blocks.

During the release of the traffic awareness pamphlets.

Deputy Commissioner, Leh, Shrikant Balasaheb Suse appreciated the initiative and asked transport unions, drivers, and commuters to obey traffic rules to improve the traffic scenario of the area. He informed that traffic police through Road Safety Engineer conducted a scientific study of road accident data of all Police Stations of UT-Ladakh to prevent road accidents and to save precious lives. He said that the administration is putting every effort to improve the traffic system and informed that the administration is already working on several projects.

SSP Leh, Stanzin Norboo requested people to obey traffic laws and cooperate with police to ensure smooth traffic on roads. DySP Headquarters, Rigzin Sandup requested transporters for public-friendly behavior and asked them to obey traffic rules.

Presidents of Taxi, Bike, and Mazda Union also spoke on the occasion and thanked traffic police for conducting the awareness programme.

Advisor Ladakh launches Social & Tribal Welfare Department website

Also launches e-services for Birth and Death registration certificates, rent collection/payment

During the launch of Social & Tribal Welfare Department website, Rewa portal by the Social & Tribal Welfare Department, and registration and issuance of birth and death certificate and online rent collection/payment service.

LEH: Umang Narula, Advisor to Lt Governor, Ladakh launched the website of Social & Tribal Welfare Department and Rewa portal by the Social & Tribal Welfare Department and registration and issuance of birth and death certificate and online rent collection/payment service by the Housing & Urban Development Department on December 24.

Advisor Umang Narula said that such e-services are an integral part of the broad umbrella of ease of living for the citizens of Ladakh. The 'digital medium' is the best way to connect the people of Ladakh with the services offered by the Government given the hardships they face due to the tough climatic conditions and difficult terrain.

He stated that the Rewa portal, an initiative of Lieutenant Governor is a scheme that will provide financial support to the students of Ladakh. Regarding the online services offered by the Housing & Urban Development Department, Advisor Narula emphasised that by the end of the current financial year all the facilities in the municipal area should be available online for the citizens.

The Advisor directed the Deputy Commissioners (Leh and Kargil) to adopt e-office practices and asked them to augment the capacity for conducting computer-based tests in Ladakh which will be hugely beneficial for the young generation.

Joining the event virtually, D Thara, Additional Secretary, Ministry of Housing and Urban Affairs lauded the initiative taken by the Administration of Ladakh and the NIC for making the Government services available online. She said that the online platform is a path-breaking initiative, and Ladakh is the 5th State/UT to have the NIC platform for these services. She exhorted the district administration and local bodies to ensure that the services are used by people and any changes required to make the portal more user-friendly should be flagged and incorporated.

DC Mishra, DDG NIC said that the online platform will decrease the cost and time for the citizens to availing the services offered by the Government. He also thanked the Administration of Ladakh and the Ministry of Housing and Urban Affairs for giving NIC the opportunity.

'Rewa- Lt Governor's Student Support Initiative' gives financial assistance to meritorious students for availing of coaching facility for national level examinations (NEET, JEE, NOA, UG CLAT) and to students who qualify for the preliminary examinations of Civil Services, Indian Forest Service and Indian Engineering Services. Students from Ladakh, who have qualified for the Civil Services Exams (Prelims) 2021, can register till 31st January 2022 on the Rewa portal at www.socialwelfare.ladakh.gov.in/rewa.

The portal for the Housing & Urban Development Department (www.serviceonline.gov.in) will make the process of registration and issuance of birth and death certificates and online rent collection/payment services smooth for both the department and the citizens of Ladakh.

People's Voice

By Tenzin Dajon

DR. JAMYANG GYALSON: Caste-based inequality in Ladakh is a serious issue and can't be neglected. The caste system exist before the flourishing of Buddhism in India and it came to Ladakh with people who came from Himachal, Tibet, and Gilgit known as Mon, Sogpa, and Dard respectively. For example; Surna players came along with Gyal Khatoon from Skardo-Gilgit. It seems that they being an outsider, locals did little discrimination with them and termed them inferior. In this way, casteism originated in Ladakh which is socially created and driven. Buddhism does not believe in casteism, rather it preaches welfare of all sentient beings without any selfish motive.

Water from Ganga, Yamuna, Indus, and Brahmaputra are valued and might have different importance but it's just water after mixing with the ocean. Because once it's merged in an ocean we cannot separate or identify the water from Ganga, Yamuna, and Brahmaputra. Similarly, once a person becomes a follower of Buddha he/she is only a human being, and it doesn't matter which caste or creed the person belongs to. Let's understand it through a story, "Seven princes visited a barber for hair cutting. The barber asked the princes that why they are cutting their hair since they are royals. The princes replied that they are going to become disciples of Buddha. Hearing them out the barber also thought of becoming a disciple of Buddha-like the princes. He at once chopped his hair and reached before Buddha. The princes reached later than the barber and had to take prostration of the barber since he came before them and was senior. The moral of the story is that once you become a follower of Buddha, caste and creed do not matter."

Caste practice is not in Buddhism and it becomes easier to make people understand to abandon such evil practices through education. Education liberates the mind from ignorance, narrow thinking, superstitions, and prejudices. Hence through education, it will become easy to convince people to uproot such practices since it does not exist in our religion. Dr. Bhim Rao Ambedkar becoming a Buddhist is a strong message for us. We need to understand why he decided to be a follower of Buddha at the last moment of his life? Because he did know that there is no caste system in this religion.

Unfortunately, the caste system is practiced in our society. The situation has somehow improved now as compared to earlier times. Today we all sit and eat together, which is a good sign. His Holiness gesture of embracing, playing the musical instruments, and teaching to condemn the caste system has somehow brought a wave of change over the few years. The practice of not allowing them to eat and drink from the same utensils providing separate cups and glasses at the village gatherings or ceremonies is improved.

Youths of today are neither believing nor caring about caste system and I think it is their responsibility to end the system. Eating and sitting together has become normal though inter-caste marriage is still a challenge in front of us, I am sure with time it will be normal. For this, we need to educate our young generation.

At village levels, we have women and youth associations who can play a very important role in eradicating the system. My teacher has instilled in me that casteism does not exist in Buddhism at my early stage of life, therefore such small thought never comes to my mind. Thus, educating the children about such evil practices at a very young age is necessary. Media can also play a crucial role in creating awareness among the people. It is true that in a society there exist some sort of issues and no society can be completely devoid of discrimination. Still, our effort must be to reduce the differences at the best level.

Padma Shri Awardee, MORUP NAMGYAL: Several discussions and seminars under the banner of Ladakh Buddhist Association (LBA) have been organised and are creating awareness among the people regarding casteism wherever we go. The situation has improved a lot and we are observing the huge change in society, though the system is still practiced in our society.

Buddha had rejected the system centuries ago and said that no disciple of him can practice it. Then how can we call ourselves a Buddhist if we practice it? Even His Holiness (HH) the 14th Dalai Lama has time and again advised us not to practice the system, and he has played Daman and had a meal with the people whom we consider lower than us. There is no higher teacher than him and if His Holiness is rejecting the system then we need to introspect.

Recently LBA has formed a committee to look after such issues in our society and I got the opportunity to serve the committee as President. We are working on 13 points of which casteism is one of them. Along with cultural preservation, we are educating people at the village level to avoid practicing the caste system in Ladakh. We often feel proud of our rich culture, but always forget to recognize the contribution of Daman and Surna players. If they have preserved and promoted our culture through their art, then how can they be inferior they are skilled and educated. Imagine our society without Surna and Daman, without Lharnga our festivals and occasions are incomplete. Let's use our intelligence and imagine their importance and contributions.

"Ali Meer Shah Khan, King of Gilgit once sent around 60 people to Kashmir to learn the art. Later they got back to Gilgit and decided to sit at the bottom of the line so that everyone could enjoy music and dance, which later, unfortunately, took the shape of casteism. And during the reign of Jamyang Gyalson, along with Gyal Khatoon many such instrument artists came to Ladakh and the same practice began here."

We need to remember that it is the century of science and people talk about visiting the Moon and exploring space, can we afford to still engage in such practices, if we continue then we will never grow and develop. On behalf of LBA, I would like to request each soul of Ladakh to avoid practicing the system. Unfortunately, good traditions are vanishing from our society, but bad tradition like casteism still has a good grab in our society. If one still has doubt and practice casteism then it shows one's narrow-mindedness. There is a saying, "Doubt creates Demon."

I would like to request the parents of the victims to give education to their children and let them be like Ambedkar. Make them leaders and tycoons, such a system will automatically uprooted from the society. At our level we have decided to call Tashis Pa instead of Mon, Sonampa/Serzopa instead of Garba, as we call Luyangs pa for singers and it

Army Day

Army Day is celebrated on January 15 every year in India as it is on this historic day that General KM Cariappa became the first Indian to take charge of the Indian Army in 1949. He took over from General Sir Francis Robert Roy Bucher who was the last English commander of our nation's army. The day is celebrated every year at all Army Command headquarters to honor our country's soldiers who set the greatest example of selfless service and brotherhood, and above all, love for the country. The motto of the Indian Army is 'service before self' and its mission is to ensure national security and national unity, defend the nation from external aggression and internal threats, and maintain peace and security within its borders.

According to the Global Fire Power Index 2017, India's army is considered the world's fourth strongest army. According to this index, America, Russia, and China have a better army than India. India's neighbour Pakistan is ranked 13th on this list. The Indian army was originated from the forces of the East India Company, which later known as the 'British Indian Army', and eventually, after Independence, it is known as the National Army.

New Year greetings, and promises

It gives one a great feeling, once again, to usher in the New Year, and also to have an occasion to wish each other very happy and prosperous months ahead. One hopes for better days, and most of us make promises, resolutions and wishes for the fulfilment of all that we want to achieve.

The world had unprecedented problems and misery in the last two years because of Covid-19 pandemic. And it is still threatening mankind, with no sign of vanishing away. And yet our hopes and wishes for a better year and days ahead are as strong as the unrelenting Covid-19 virus. Given our strong willpower and determination to wipe the virus out, one can sing, "we shall overcome someday", and we hope the New Year brings an end to the pandemic.

It is again the time for one to introspect and find out what one has missed because of various reasons, not necessarily because of your own shortcomings. After going through the good and the bad that happened in the past one year, we will find out how we can have better days ahead. Resolutions will be made once again and plans chalked out for getting them fulfilled.

In doing so, one has to be very practical and dynamic because various unseen factors would crop up as we go along the passage and the tides of time. Many difficulties can crop up out of nowhere, and some of us maybe tempted to give up instead of taking them head on as challenges and a test to our willingness to march ahead. Your dream of a particular goal should never be shrouded with the clouds of doubt. Read great books by or on great people. That will inspire you to go higher the ladder to your goal.

In other words, one has to be fully mission-oriented instead of being bogged down by the pull-down factors. Being optimistic without being unrealistic helps one a great lot in turning even the worst of a situation into a good ground to play a winner.

Interviewed by Tenzin Dajon

Q. You hold various portfolios like education, environment, youth service & sports, labour welfare, parks & gardens, and ICDS, etc. Which sector is on the priority basis?

All sectors are important and can't be ignored but education is prioritized over other sectors.

There are many things which need to be done especially in school education as compared to the higher education sector. Works are going under various schemes to improve school education. School buildings will be reconstructed in a solar passive way as per Ladakh's topography. The Teacher-students ratio has always been a challenging task in Ladakh. Earlier it was 1:4, now it is 1:6 in government schools, which is still below the normal. To solve the issue we have suggestions and options of transportation and residential facilities for schools, which is under consideration.

Q. Schools in UT Ladakh will be affiliated with CBSE. Do we meet the standards and criteria laid down by the CBSE? Is it not possible to establish a new separate board for Ladakh?

From the next session, our schools will come under CBSE; curriculum and examinations will be held as per their norms. There is a notion among us that CBSE is a tough board as compared to other boards. We need to understand that the work of the board is to conduct examinations and make a curriculum but the quality of education depends on us, so there is not much of a difference.

Though we received multiple suggestions for the Ladakh board, we already had an ultimatum from the J&K board after bifurcation. So after multiple deliberations with experts, we decided to opt for CBSE instead of having our board. Having own board will have recognition issues and more time will be required to set up the new system. Therefore for time being, we had no option except for CBSE, but later we can think for the Ladakh board.

A team from CBSE has visited here twice and their focus was mainly on standard 8 above and in the coming days, infrastructural facilities will be developed according to their norms. Though we already had a scheme to make school infrastructure better before this decision was taken. Because of funds constraints, it was pending now the fund issue is solved after UT.

Q. How many functional and defunct government schools are in the district. What steps are being taken to improve the education quality in government schools?

Tangyar in Nubra which remained closed for years are now revived back because of government and parent's effort.

Nowadays facilities in government schools are improving and there is a sign that parents wanted to send their children to government schools because of high fees charged by private schools. Government is ready to give quality infrastructure and education to govt institutions. A new post for teachers will be created soon. If transportation and proper faculty will be granted then there is a good scope of reviving the schools which are shut down and Hill Council is working towards the same. Further, we are going to create School Managing Committee (SMC) to enhance community participation at the school, Zonal, and District levels to boost the monitoring system. With the establishment of SMC, we can improve the functioning of schools. The constitution of SMC is under process.

Q. What initiatives are being taken to achieve Carbon Neutral Ladakh. How practical is it to achieve the dream?

At the council level, solar passive government buildings are being built along with it the scopes for renewable energies are being explored.

Many projects are being initiated to reduce carbon emissions. Electric buses and scooters are already in Ladakh and soon we are going to get hydrogen fuel. The young generation should develop the culture of riding electric bikes and cycles, especially in summer. The procurement of vehicles in large numbers by the administration and movement of a group of vehicles along with the VVIPs contradicts the vision. We have already discussed the matter with Lt Governor, UT Ladakh.

There are many challenges such as the heating system used in winter months such as the burning of cow dungs, woods, and kerosene by almost every household. To replace the old traditional system we need clean energy alternatives. Ladakh will soon be connected with the grid system completely through which we will have multiple alternatives for a heating system. Most importantly we are creating awareness among school children and through them, society will be educated.

Carbon neutral Ladakh will be difficult but with everybody's effort, we will achieve it for better tomorrow.

MESSAGE TO THE READERS

“Support of every individual is must to improve education. Generally, we leave the responsibility of education to school and teachers only. Society and parents also play a very crucial role. With collective effort, we can achieve it.”

We have 358 schools in total, and around 63 primary schools have been closed due to enrolment issues. In the year 2007-08 many private schools were established and many schools were upgraded under SSA, but the number of teachers remained the same, reason why many parents sent their children to private schools. There are 45 private schools in Leh. Few government schools like Ayee, Ronjuk, and

CEC, Leh, reviews Ladakh Greenhouse progress

Members of Hill Council and officials of DIHAR reviewing the progress of Ladakh Green House.

Reach Ladakh Correspondent

LEH: Chairman/CEC, LAHDC, Leh, Adv. Tashi Gyalsen reviewed the progress of Ladakh Greenhouse followed by a field visit at DIHAR on December 27.

The DIHAR officials informed about the benefits and various technologies used in the Ladakh greenhouse. It is said that the greenhouse is an initiative to achieve the goals of self-sufficiency and a carbon-neutral Ladakh.

CEC, Tashi Gyalsen called DIHAR a blessing for Ladakh for its continuous efforts in making Ladakh self-sufficient and carbon neutral. He expressed gratitude for their efforts in coming up with greenhouses suitable to the environment of Ladakh.

CEC inquired about the present status of the Ladakh greenhouses and their establishment in every village of Leh district. He shared that UT Ladakh should upscale the project of greenhouses in Ladakh and urged the concerned department to promote greenhouses as Ladakh Greenhouse. He instructed the concerned officials to initiate the project in villages with extreme climatic conditions and gradually cover all the villages of Leh district. He further instructed the concerned department for the early completion of 850 greenhouses in Leh district at the cost of ₹ 25 crores.

The greenhouses would help in cultivating nutritious and fresh vegetables in extreme climatic conditions. The councillors were asked to raise awareness among villagers in their constituencies to avail the benefit of this initiative.

Deputy Chairman, LAHDC, appreciated the efforts of DIHAR and requested councillors of respective constituencies to share their inputs with DIHAR.

EC Animal/Sheep suggested awareness of Ladakh greenhouses and their allied technologies to every village in Leh district. Also, EC agriculture informed that the Department is spreading awareness programme on greenhouses to farmers. He added that a region-specific model would soon be initiated in the Leh district. EC Minority also suggested setting up a biocontrol lab for disease control in agriculture and hoped for accomplishing mission organic in Ladakh.

Director DIHAR stressed the need for harnessing solar energy to achieve carbon neutrality. He termed Ladakh Greenhouse as 'farmer-friendly' and a 'lifeline' of Leh in the winter.

Secretary, Agriculture/Horticulture, reviews export of apricots, apples, sea-buckthorn, and agri produce

Secretary, Agriculture/Horticulture inspecting the greenhouse at DIHAR.

Reach Ladakh Correspondent

LEH: Secretary, Agriculture/Horticulture, Ravinder Kumar reviewed the export of Agriculture and Horticulture produce outside UT Ladakh during a meeting with concerned officials on December 23.

A joint action plan for the area expansion and improvement of the production of indigenous plants and fruits, including apricots, apples, and sea-buckthorn, and agriculture products were discussed. Prospects for the export of buckwheat, vegetables, and pulses were also taken into consideration.

The officials of the concerned department briefed the challenges in the process of production, including codling moths that degrade the quality of apples, the need for drip irrigation, biofertilizers, and more. Speaking on the issue of codling moths, the Secretary directed that orchard sanitization would be crucial while dealing with the problem which could otherwise negatively impact the export plans and affect brand values in the future.

The Secretary reiterated that Ladakh has the potential to become a major player in the export of quality products and asked the officials and entrepreneurs to develop a Strategic Action Plan within a week to help discern the areas where immediate action is required. He also urged the officials to resolve the issues submitted and raised by the entrepreneurs and exporters in the meeting on an urgent basis and conduct mass awareness campaigns and training programs.

The entrepreneurs apprised the Secretary about their challenges to export products, such as the need for a 'Letter of Introduction' from the concerned departments for a better approach in the market besides subsidy schemes for cargo, tools, and tackles such as customized crates, baskets, pruning tools, support and guidance in getting Food Safety and Standards Authority of India (FSSAI) and organic certification for better branding and marketing.

They expressed their gratitude for involving all the local stakeholders in formulating the plan and robust roadmap for entrepreneurial endeavors with full transparency and support of the government.

Secretary, Ravinder Kumar lauded the officials for their hard work and progress in all sectors of agriculture and horticulture. He directed the officials to develop an annual calendar on export along with subsidies on the export of agriculture and horticulture products.

Later, the secretary also paid a visit to the DIHAR where he inspected the greenhouses and other research activities being conducted by the institution.

Q. Since you take charge of the Youth service & sports, brief us about the LAHDC plans and actions to promote and develop sports.

We have many talented players in different sports and Hill Council is always in support of it. In Ladakh Ice hockey has been played for many years, but still needs to promote in remote regions of Ladakh. To promote at the grassroots level, each councillor has tried to establish at least one ice hockey rink in their respective constituencies. This year we have also allocated subsidies for the procurement of equipment.

Archery is a traditional sport of Ladakh, its promotion becomes more important. The archery equipment is being distributed in schools at subsidized rate. For this year we have allocated Rs.1 crore for the subsidy on a trial basis, but in the future, we are going to enhance it as the equipment is very expensive in both cases. An effort is made to provide the facilities in schools for an effective promotion.

Each game and sport is important for us and equal importance is given.

Q. Besides Dy Chairman you are a councillor of Diskit constituency. What are your past achievements and plans?

My constituency includes Tangyar, Digger, Khema, Rongdo, Rongjuk, Khardong and Shayok River. At this point, each village of my constituency has all the basic facilities like ration, drinking water, road connectivity, and electricity. Earlier there were few villages deprived of electricity, now each village is connected with electricity, not for 24x7 but at least for 8 hours. In addition, each region is connected to the internet, except for a few villages of Khardong and Digger. But towers have already been sanctioned and in the coming season, they will be functional. Khema being a high altitude and remote village road connectivity is a little challenging, therefore we put the road under PMGSY scheme for more funds. Under SDP we have planned to macadamize the roads, it got delayed as the region falls under Wildlife Act like Changthang. Therefore developmental works often get delayed.

Nubra is also a flood-prone area, earlier due to funding shortage we could not get a permanent solution. Now under SDP, we have allocated funds for the construction of a concrete wall along streams and rivers as a permanent solution. In addition, Nubra has high potential in hydropower, especially at Rongdo and Shayok river and DPR is ready. The foundation stones of a few important bridges have been laid and will help in connecting villages. In the coming season, Siachen Base Camp will be opened for the tourists, which will be a new tourism destination in Siachen Belt (Pharka).

Caste-based inequality is still a social reality is a good sign that few villages have started implementing it. In this way, our coming generation will never question the system. It is also fortunate that nowadays we are observing sitting arrangements according to seniority (age-wise) during gatherings and occasions. Sooner or later we will also witness marriage relations. Ladakh is a land of Buddha, if a foreigner learns about such evil practices then it will send a negative message to them.

As a society, we need to understand that our enemy will always try to take advantage of weaknesses and lapses in our society, therefore maintaining equality and unity is necessary. It is my humble appeal to the people of Ladakh to follow the teachings of Buddha and His Holiness and implement it in their life and must do an effort to uproot the system at an individual level.
